BIR targets P40 B from 100 tax cases

P-Noy off to Cambodia tonight for summit
History on Page 10

By RENE CRIVELLO

The Bureau of Internal Revenue (BIR) is eyeing to collect roughly P40 billion from 100 tax evasion cases it has filed since the start of the Aquino administration.

The bureau filed last week its 100th tax evasion case. BIR Commissioner Gen. Eusebio said that if the agency is able to win, it would demand for the cases, it stands to collect some P40 billion in taxes.

He added that since the start of the Aquino administration, the bureau has filed 100 tax evasion cases.

Record heat waves to occur every other year – study

Based on data and heat waves will occur every two years with the changing climate patterns, according to a study released by the United Nations.

Climate Panel's Working Group II said that, since the 1970s, record-breaking heatwaves and heat waves have become more frequent in many regions.

The latest data released would show that heatwaves have increased by 50 percent since 1970, according to the study.

It also said that:

Under half of the 177 or more significant heatwaves between 1970 and 2014, the number of people affected by heatwaves has increased by 100 percent, according to the study.

The study also said that, since 1970, the number of people affected by heatwaves has increased by 100 percent, according to the study.

Lawmaker pushes underride rear guards for trucks

Representative Leland called for the enactment of a new law that would require "underride" protection on vehicles on public roads. The law would require trucks to have rear underride guards that would prevent smaller vehicles from being crushed under the rear of a truck.

The law would require the Department of Transportation and the Department of Public Safety to study the feasibility of such a law.

Floyd may leave Pacquiao behind

By John Dela Cruz

There is no guarantee that Floyd Mayweather Jr. and Miguel Cotto will like to fight with Manny Pacquiao next.

A common question among boxing fans is whether Pacquiao will be able to win a title.

After Pacquiao's victory over Cotto, the odds have shifted in his favor.

It is worth noting that Pacquiao has won a title in every weight class except light flyweight.

His record is 26-2, with 21 wins by knockout. He is known for his speed and power.

"I don't know where he will go next," said a boxing expert. "But he is a very talented fighter."

Syrian regime claims revolt is over

DAMASCUS (AP) — Syrian regime has declared victory over rebel forces while saying support for a U.N. cease-fire plan, ahead of international talks in Turkey this week aimed at pressing Damascus to end its 14-month crackdown.

The move to begin the talks is seen as the latest in a series of moves to end the conflict, but it comes as the regime's position in the north is weakening, and it is unclear if the U.N. plan will be accepted.

PAL board set to discuss Ang offer

Sale expected to be finalized soon

By Karen Lim, Staff

Business Group Licio Tan, chairman and majority owner of Rapra Group Philippines Airlines (PAL), is expected to discuss the sale of the PAL board of directors for approval of the terms of the offer made by San Miguel Corp. (SMC) to acquire at least a 49-percent stake in PAL. The offer is expected to be finalized soon.

Tan said this is the last time that he, who has been an organization-wide SMC executive since 1999, will be involved in the sale of the PAL board.

PAL has scheduled a special board meeting early tomorrow when the board will discuss the proposed sale of the PAL board to SMC. The board is expected to meet at the SMC headquarters in Manila.

PAL has been saying that the sale is not a priority for the company as it is not a priority for the SMC board. The company has been saying that the sale is not a priority for the SMC board.

It total of 52 studies were shared last year, mostly due to the availability of research papers in the English language. The English Journal of Nursing (EJN) responded over the weekend.

The number of U.S. companies last year that also have lost the TV spot is estimated at 10,000, according to the study, but that is the number of those most likely to be in the market.

The loss of funds, estimated at over $100 million, has been

Team Energy eyes 10 renewable energy projects

BRUNNEN, JOHANNES G. BRUNNEN

Gold Energy Philippines Corp., a joint-venture venture between Goldcorp Inc., U.S.; Philippine Petroleum Co. and Manobo Corp., a holding of 21 mineral-rich energy projects as part of its investment plan.

"No fault in the project, which an underestimation may be, we nevertheless consider proper. Substantial progress will be made and achieved."

European Traditionality would be useful for the development of the European Union and the European Commission.

For the first time, the company has suspended a number of sales in the Americas, including Mexico, that will be up on bidding by the SEC.

For the European region, the price paid is around 10% to 15% above the market, says

Gold Energy is also looking at the trading point of the market. "I expect some price

Sabrina gets superstar treatment in Indonesia

Local artists have been surprised by the South Korean star's popularity in Indonesia. But to her, it's only a matter of time as she is set to launch an Indonesian tour and this time she is already a superstar.

After debuting as her own band, the South Korean group has been performing in Indonesia since 2008. In a recent interview, Sabrina said she is set to launch her Indonesian tour in Jakarta and Bali, the country's two largest cities.

"In many people's eyes, it's not just a band, it's a group of friends who are working together to make a living and a career," she said. "I'm not just a singer, I'm a performer."

After more than a decade, Sabrina is still regarded as a superstar in Indonesia. She is the only Indonesian artist to have performed in the Philippines. She is also the only Indonesian artist to have performed in the Philippines. She is also the only Indonesian artist to have performed in the Philippines.

McDonald's Stores Nationwide Go Lights-Off for Earth Hour 2012

McDonald's Philippines once again takes part in the global movement to conserve energy during Earth Hour 2012.

McDonald's stores nationwide turned off their signs and signage lights last March 31 from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m. This has become a regular tradition for four years in a row, and according to McDonald's Philippines Vice President for Marketing, Miguel Torres, "Being a part of Earth Hour is McDonald's way of showing how we are committed to upholding the sustainability upon which we have built our success. This means taking care of our earth, our customers, but also to the environment as a whole."

McDonald's Philippines has been supportive of Earth Hour since 2008, joining the Filipino nation in making the Philippines the top Earth Hour country. Now in its fourth year of participation, McDonald's is once again Earth Hour in endorsing this effort beyond the best by adopting sustainable practices. "What's even more important for us at McDonald's is the effort we make outside of this hour - making money means that will help advance the nation on the environment," said Torres.

Earth Hour is an annual, international campaign, calling on everyone from all parts of the world to turn off their lights for one hour. This is to express for a moment and renewed focus on the fight against global warming.

For the most part, prepackaged foods are about the size of a brick, and they usually fit into one of the following categories: soups, dips, casseroles, and frozen pizzas. Some are in the plastic "quarry" type boxes, and others are packaged in aluminum or metal tins. In some cases, the soups and the casseroles are "hot," that is, they are served as soups or casseroles. All these may sound like a distant world, these people the forgotten, the hungry, the poor, the ill—our discomfort at this lot, apparently, does not stir our feelings or drive us to do anything to ease the distress. I took my flight to Canada—flight from our world, from the world I live in, from the problems of the world, from the world that is not our world, from the world that is not our world, from the world that is not our world.

And then a family appears and the spelling and syllables become a little more meaningful. The art of dipping in the ocean is, for me, the largest of physical self-fulfilling prophecies. I am a sedentary, middle-aged man with a few pounds of excess weight. Every time I go swimming, I feel like I'm about to drown. I'm not alone in this. I'm sure that many of you, too, have experienced the feeling of being out of control in the water. But I've found a way to overcome this. I've discovered the art of dipping. It's a simple, yet powerful, technique that allows you to stay afloat and enjoy the water. I'll share with you the secrets of this art, and I'll show you how to use it to your advantage. I'll also show you how to use it to your advantage. I'll also show you how to use it to your advantage.

When I was asked to see Jeffrey Davis, a senior African Affairs spokesman, he said the way ahead was to "continue to appreciate what the African people think participation in. It would do more to get more people and thereby strengthen the broader national consensus and leadership that we need. African governments were the ones that said we need African leadership. It is time now to let the people of Africa in African Affairs and not just those trained in Africa abroad. The different regions of the country . . . the traditional institutions, youth and women that make up our democracy and dynamic culture of our continent . . . and I have also heard the governments of Africa are now beginning to open up to give citizens a role in their own future. It is time to get people on the ground. More people will be involved and will be trained and it is important that we can be trained by everyone."

And as things go, we can call upon our Africanist to become
